Reproaches a Policeman for Not Letting Him Die.

Patrick Mitchell, a resident of Waterbury. Conn., was early this morning removed from the Compton House, Third avenue and pert watch tool maker. He was employed for veral years by the Waterbury Clock Company, which concern highly recommends him as a first-class workman.

Between 9 and 10 o'clock last night Mitchell took a room at the Compton House He was alone. About 1.30 this morning couple who had just come in detected the odor of gas and notified the porter, who traced sman Keating, of the East Twentysecond street station, who was called, burst open the door of the room. As he entered Mitchell jumped out or bed and said: "You wouldn't let me die, would you?"

He had torn the drawers into strips and stuffed up the crevious of the door and window. The gas was turned on full.

In the room was a valise which contained clothing and a memorandum-book, on the First Ship of the New Grace Line cover of which was a picture of Presidentelect Cleveland. In the book was a pakn ticket for a fold watch and the following was written on one of the pages:

Dear str . Will you please inform my brother of my death? His address is 514 East Sixteenth street, rear house. He will gellan. look after my body and pay all expenses; also for the gas I have used. Patrick had saved a few thousand deliars, and last April went to England. It is orleved he has spent nearly all his money.

The would-be suicide called at his brother's last Sunday and gave him a letter, and told him not to open it until Monday morning.

At 8 o'clock Monday morning his brother received a note from Patrick telling him not to open the letter for a day or two until he heard from him again. The would-be suicide's brother told the police that he had the letter at home unopened.

It is supposed that Patrick meant to make an attempt on his life Sunday night.

bill exempting property-owners from its provisions, and a compromise is therefore apparently out of the question.

A way out of the question.

A way out of the predicament has been suggested—the unseating of Republican Senator Derby and the scating in his place of ex-Senator Michael Collins, of Troy, who contested his election in 1801. A precedent for such a proceeding in cited in the Fifty-first Congress, when Czar Reed's Committee on Election outsed eight Democrats at the eleventh hour to give the Republicans a working majority.

Right here another obstacle is encountered. It is said that neither Senators Walker, Brown nor McClelland would vote to deprive Derby of his seat. These three Senators are said to be in sympathy with the Cleveland forces, and are very angry on account of the recent wholesale removals from State offices of to faithful followers of Senator Hill.

A more serious dilemma has seldom confronted the Democratic leaders. The cieves and that the "Big Four" have nobody to blame but themselves for the could. Their hands are tied by the very men they have tried to humble, and now they will have treed to humble, and now they will have
